GPPB has ruled in NPM Opinion No. 18-2005 [that] the requirement for submission of legal documents should mean the individual submission of all the entities comprising the joint venture. On the other hand, because usually joint ventures have become a remedy to augment on the capability of smaller enterprises to participate in competition and to eventually perform the contract, the submissions of financial and technical documentary requirements by any of the entities constitute compliance. Consequently, we reiterate our ruling that each member of the Joint Venture shall submit the Legal Documents under the eligibility requirements. This is to ensure that all the parties in the Joint Venture have the requisite legal personality to conduct business. As per GPPB NPM No. 044-2007 dated 2007-08-13: In case prospective bidders form a Joint Venture, Filipino ownership or interest of the joint venture concerned, as a general rule, shall be at least sixty percent (60%), in case of procurement of goods, (Section 23.11.1 [b], IRR-A).
